Who We Are

STOlogix emerged from a team of turnaround professionals who not only dream up tools, but also manage STO events across the industry and around the country. With more than 100 years of combined STO project management experience, our senior staff has developed and utilized tools that make our team competitive and ultimately, produce a better product for our customers.

What We Offer

STOlogix is a role-based, client-defined, customer-driven platform for planning and executing STO events. From start to finish, you can manage STO events with customized tools designed to fit your needs. Five individual suites come together to form one powerhouse operating system.

The STologix Software Suite

STOmap

is your road map to getting a project executed. Intended for long-range planning during the phase-gate process, it's the first tool your company would use to plan an execution.

STOplanner

houses your worklist, work scope and events of the turnaround. Within this module, you can add in the particulars for detailed job package planning.

STOcomm

monitors the actual execution of your turnaround. You can view the real truth in real-time, reading schedules and analyzing progress data within one platform.

STOmaterial

is a robust material tracking tool that drives your processes. By linking this to STOcomm, you can ensure schedule readiness for your execution(s).

STOcost

is a data repository that crosses modules. It supports forecasting, reporting and deliverables, transparency and integration.
